Anne Frank House

The online exhibit was created in partnership with the Anne Frank House, a non-profit organization that maintains the Anne Frank museum and her legacy.

“The Anne Frank House is a non-profit organisation. Its main aims are to administer the Anne Frank House museum and to spread the message of Anne Frank’s life and ideals. The Anne Frank House is an independent organisation with no affiliations to any political party or ideological movement.”

Other Jewish families

Anne's German-Jewish family was not unusual in the neighbourhood. Very soon other Jewish families began to move in, no longer able to envisage much of a future for themselves in Nazi Germany. These included the Goslar and Ledermann families from Berlin. Anne became friends with their daughters, Hannah Goslar and Sanne Ledermann.

A screenshot of the NewsGuard website homepage. The page has a white header with the NewsGuard logo and navigation links: "How It Works", "News Literacy", "Brand Safety", "Press", "Why Trust Us?", "Get NewsGuard", "Feedback", and a language dropdown set to "English". A green "Get NewsGuard" button with a Chrome extension icon is in the top right. The main content area has a light gray background with a dot pattern. A blue horizontal bar is above the headline "Restoring Trust &amp; Accountability". The lower half of the page has a dark gray background with white text. On the left, a paragraph states: "NewsGuard uses journalism to fight false news, misinformation, and disinformation. Our trained analysts, who are experienced journalists, research online news brands to help readers and viewers know which ones are trying to do legitimate journalism—and which are not." On the right, four paragraphs describe the service: 1) "Our Green-Red ratings signal if a website is trying to get it right or instead has a hidden agenda or knowingly publishes falsehoods or propaganda." 2) "Readers have more context for their news online." 3) "And advertisers worried about their brands' reputations keep their ads off unreliable news sites." 4) "NewsGuard also provides 'Nutrition Label' write-ups of the more than 2,000 news and information sites that account for 96% of online engagement in the U.S. in English." 5) "A SWAT team of NewsGuard analysts operates 24/7 to identify suddenly trending purveyors of unreliable news among sites that NewsGuard has not yet rated and warn internet users about them in real time." 6) "After launching in the U.S., U.K., Germany, France, and Italy NewsGuard will expand to serve the billions of people globally who get news online." 7) "Our goal is to give everyone the information they need to be better informed about which news sources they can rely on—or can't rely on." At the bottom right is a button that says "Submit a site for review" with a right-pointing arrow.

Green: A website is rated green if it generally adheres to basic standards of credibility and transparency. (If the site adheres to all nine of our criteria, we note that in the rating. If it has significant exceptions among the criteria, we note that too.)

Red: A website is rated red if it generally fails to meet basic standards of credibility and transparency. (We note whether the site failed several of our nine criteria, or whether it severely violates journalistic standards by failing an especially significant number of criteria.)

Satire: A humor or satire site receive a satire rating, indicating that it is not a real news website. We do not rate these sites according to the nine journalistic criteria, but we do provide a description of each site including, if possible, who is behind it.

Platform: A site receives a platform rating if it primarily hosts user-generated content that it does not vet. Information from platform sites may or may not be reliable. We do not rate these sites according to the nine journalistic criteria, but we do provide a description of each site and its practices.

Rating Criteria

CRITERIA WEIGHTING

Each of the nine criteria is assigned a certain number of points, as noted in the section above. The points add up to 100. A website that scores fewer than 60 points is rated red.

Note: The weighting of these criteria may change as we receive feedback and continue to develop our process. When such changes are made they will be noted here.

Criteria Weighting Points:

Criteria	Points
Does not repeatedly publish false content	22
Gathers and presents information responsibly	18
Regularly corrects or clarifies errors	12.5
Handles the difference between news and opinion responsibly	12.5
Avoids deceptive headlines	10
Website discloses ownership and financing	7.5
Clearly labels advertising	7.5
Reveals who's in charge, including possible conflicts of interest	5
The site provides the names of content creators, along with either contact or biographical information	5

Why do educators, librarians, and parents turn to NewsGuard as a news literacy resource?

- 1 It's the only tool that provides extensive background information about news sources and their reliability
- 2 Compared to alternatives like Wikipedia, NewsGuard provides information based on standard journalistic criteria of credibility and transparency
- 3 It's free (with the support of Microsoft's Defending Democracy Program)
- 4 It never collects personal information
- 5 It's a transparent solution to misinformation based on fully disclosed processes — not censorship or opaque algorithms

In the summer of 2018, congressman-turned-lobbyist Jim Moran was trying to recruit his former colleagues to put pressure on the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Moran was doing so on behalf of one of his clients, the government of Qatar. And he had a pot of money, left over from years of donations to his reelection campaigns, that he could steer to his lobbying targets. Throughout June and July, Moran, a "senior legislative advisor" at the firm McDermott Will & Emery, reached out to at least a dozen House and Senate members of both parties as part of the effort. He for the letter, which he hoped the... Read More

Fluorescent-41 Tint

Jessica Dawkins

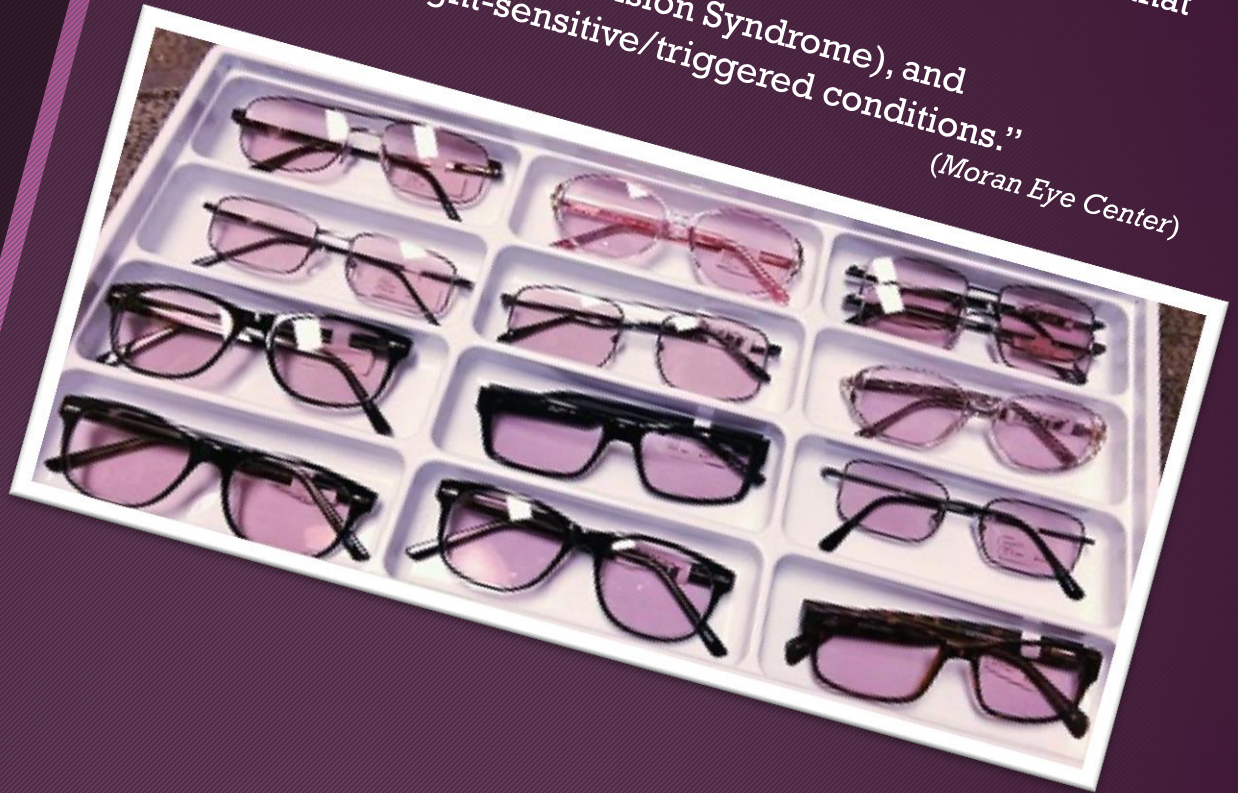

FL-41 tinted lenses block blue and green wavelengths of light, reducing photophobia and migraine frequency.

“By blocking these wavelengths of light, this filter also improves contrast and sharpness which increases visual acuity,” and there are no side effects from wearing FL-41 tinted lenses.
(Moran Eye Center)

“The FL-41 filter is a ‘boysenberry-ish’ colored tint that can [also] help ease:

- light triggered seizures,
- CVS (Computer Vision Syndrome), and
- other light-sensitive/triggered conditions.”

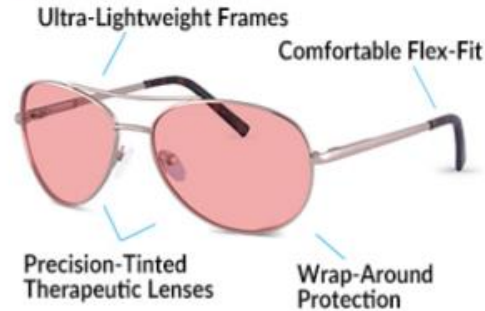

(Moran Eye Center)

Research shows that FL-41 lenses:

- Relieve painful light sensitivity
- Reduce migraines and headaches
- Offer protection from fluorescent lights

I just started this year because I wanted to track my inclusive reading
And I got super intense about it lol

Michelle

Today at 1:49 PM

I think keeping track of that is great

Elizabeth

Today at 1:50 PM

@Melinda ask away! I can help you customize one for yourself

Michelle

Today at 1:50 PM

I am going to recommend tracking reading and buying for DEI to some librarians next week

Melinda

Today at 1:52 PM

I checked my 2017 reading and I was like at 17% inclusivity
And then I started paying attention in 2018 around April and I got to mayb 22%
And this year my goal has been 40%, and for AOC I'm at 43% for the year

Michelle

Today at 1:53 PM

That is an interesting rise
and shows that just paying attention matters

Melinda

Today at 1:53 PM

And for LGBTQIA I'm at 14.6%

Melinda

Today at 1:54 PM

I pay very very close attention to it now. Before I was just picking up the same stuff as always.

Izzy

Today at 1:54 PM

Yeah so I started by reading 'less men (not hard) then going more into that tracking to ensure I track for inclusiveness

Melinda

Today at 1:55 PM

@Elizabeth my main question is about charts and formulas - are those possible to do?
