Description of the Award

The National Network of Libraries of Medicine MidContinental Region (NNLM MCR), under a cooperative agreement grant with the U.S. National Library of Medicine (NLM), announces the availability of funding through Community Engagement Awards for projects that either 1) expand the reach of training opportunities for library staff in health information; 2) conduct library programs, projects and strategic interventions in support of the NNLM mission to broaden access to health information; or 3) conduct planning that helps libraries and/or community-based organizations deliver consumer health information to communities. The award’s primary aims are to broaden access to and awareness of health information resources, with an emphasis on those resources provided by the NLM, and to increase communication channels among librarians, health care professionals, government, and community-based organizations.

To receive funding your organization must be an NNLM MCR member. Membership(s) may be confirmed by visiting the NNLM Member Directory. Not a member? Join today, it’s free.

Specifically, the Training and Engagement Project Subaward seeks to address the following aims and intended outcomes of the NNLM MCR:

Aim (Outreach and Education Core): Making sub-awards to regional Network members to help achieve MCR outreach, education, and technology goals.

NNLM MCR intended outcomes:
- Network members have adopted effective practices promoted by the NNLM MCR.
- Participants in NNLM MCR programs are aware of appropriate resources and/or have the skills to use them.
- Underserved populations in the MidContinental Region benefit from NNLM MCR programs.
- Participants engaging with the NNLM MCR experience a significant increase to health information access.
- The reach of the NNLM MCR is extended as a result of work with organizations and Network members.

Proposals that capitalize on public library partnerships with other types of libraries, community-based organizations, health-care providers and/or community members are especially sought.

Up to $15,000 of funding is available to NNLM member institutions for approximately two awards within the MidContinental Region.

Resources to assist applicants in writing proposals can be found here:
- Grants and Proposal Writing course materials
- Examples of previously funded projects

Prepare your proposal using the following outline:

I. Background Information
   - Working title for the project;
   - Abstract;
   - Name of the library or organization submitting the proposal;
   - Institution tax ID;
   - Date of submission;
   - Primary lead’s name, mailing and email addresses, phone numbers;
   - Amount being requested;
   - Any other funding received for this project.

II. Project Proposal
   - Evidence of need for the project: Clearly explain the need for the project, include important demographic information that supports the need for the project or about the target population, and describe information resources or services which are currently available, information resources or services which are needed, and relevant barriers to access. Also, applicants should cite any known needs assessments, formal or otherwise, and any relevant statistics or literature that support the needs identified.
   - Diversity and inclusion: Explain how this project supports building or enhancing diversity and inclusion with your library community.
   - NLM Resources: Note what NLM resource(s) you will be highlighting and how they will be incorporated into your outreach or programming.
   - Project goals and objectives: State the goal(s) and specific objective(s) of the proposed project, consider process objectives about what will be done (outputs) and outcomes-based objectives that specify what will happen or change as a result, indicate the rationale for the plan.
   - Implementation: Discuss in detail how the project will be implemented. Include tasks to be performed and who will perform them.
• Schedule/Timeline: Provide a timeline for the project.

• Publicity: Provide a plan for promoting the project to the targeted organization or community. Examples would include sharing successes or challenges on a monthly basis as the project is implemented through a Facebook post, a tweet, or captioned Instagram post that the MCR can share.

• Personnel: Identify all project personnel and their role in the project. If you plan to hire consultants, please notify the engagement coordinator.

• Specific Populations/Roles of Participants/Goals: Form must be included with your proposal. The form can be downloaded at: https://nnlm.gov/sites/default/files/ner/files/REQUIRED%20FORM_Specific%20Populations_Roles%20of%20Participants_Goals1.pdf

• Project Partners: If applicable, describe any institution(s) that you will be working with on this project. Partners may include other public libraries, health sciences libraries, health-care providers, community-based organizations, or community members.

• Evaluation plan: Describe how the success of the project will be measured and the methods to be used to measure that success. Evaluation should be tied to project goals and objectives, with a measure of success for each objective. Output/process objectives are usually measured quantitatively. Outcome measures may be quantitative or qualitative.

The subaward applicants should consult the NNLM MCR office for resources and guidance in developing their evaluation plans. Award recipients conducting certain NNLM activities will be asked to collect specific information and report it by the end of the project using the forms provided on the NNLM Evaluation Office’s (NEO) Evaluation Materials web page (https://nnlm.gov/neo/members/evalmaterials). If your project includes training, technology, exhibiting, or professional development activities, you will need to use these forms to collect and report this standard information. If you plan to do any of the outreach activities addressed on the Evaluation Materials page, describe how you intend to use the forms to collect the information in your evaluation plan.

For projects needing different or additional evaluation methods, the NEO provides templates and evaluation planning worksheets on the 4 Steps to an Evaluation Plan (https://nnlm.gov/neo/members/evaluationresources) web page to help develop evaluation plans for your project. Subaward applicants also might find other NEO resources (https://nnlm.gov/neo/guides/tools) helpful in developing evaluation plans.

Public Library Applicants – The Public Library Association’s Project Outcome is a free online toolkit designed to help public libraries understand and share the impact of essential library programs and services with simple surveys and an easy-to-use process for measuring and analyzing outcomes (https://www.projectoutcome.org/).
